Want a new party look but feel stuck in the same old makeup rut? Look at your face in a new light with a private makeup lesson, like the one offered by Toronto makeup artist Dino Dilio. He addresses the most common makeup mistakes: not making the most of the shape of your face or knowing how to enhance your best features. Dilio applies makeup on one side of your face and gets you to try your hand at the other, instructing as you go. Unlike other makeovers which may leave you feeling overwhelmed by products, Dilio keeps it simple. "So many women come to me with too many cosmetics," he says. "I like to edit them down and help them choose items that address their individual needs." The best part? You get a personalized "face map," with a reminder of the tips and tricks you've learned to take home.
